Why Freemasonry Invented Feminism

The reason the media is so full of feminism is because Freemasonry has two aims:

1) The destruction of all religion, particularly Christianity, and most especially, Catholicism.
2) The creation of a one-world government.

To these ends, Freemasonry has methodically acquired a monopoly on the world media in order to shape human minds.

They use the media to slowly change public beliefs, sewing subtle propaganda messages to make people think they feel sympathetic to the aims of Freemasonry on innumerable issues.

(This is why it is so important to know who was the AUTHOR of your beliefs, and what their motivations were.)

To destroy religion, Freemasons decided they would have to change the way children were raised in order to "breed it out" of them. Knowing they could never take children away from their parents, as this would create an insurmountable universal uproar, they settled for the next best thing; they would take the mother away from the children. This they would do by using the media to sew the message to women that they are being repressed and that to shake off their repression they must leave the home and seek a full-time job instead of staying home to raise the children themselves. All the better if they can teach the woman that its ok to cheat on their spouse, as this will inevitably lead to divorce, forcing the mother to spend still more time away from the children.

Take the moral Christian guidance of the mother out of the home, and the moral fiber of the children is instead shaped purely by the remainder of what they are exposed to all day: the public schools, the schoolyard, and the media.

This is the whole reason why Freemasons and their stooge-groups have labored so much to not only take religion out of the school curriculum, but to actively ban it from school absolutely.

Thus, they got control of 1/3 of a child's potential programming sources…

PUBLIC SCHOOL

This part focusses on internationalism, freedom-ideology, and race-equality propaganda, and other messages designed to steer a child into having sympathy with the goal of bringing about a one-world government. STGs are very much a part of this plan; the dogma of which presents arguments designed to coerce the governments of the world to ultimately unite almost invisibly through mutual authoritarian regulatory oversight.

"If a child can't sit next to a foreigner on the bus, as adults, they will never cooperate with global unification." - In this slogan we see the motivation for "Majority to Minority" programs, international exchange student programs, and foreign language teaching programs.

Thus the public school system, as well as the University system, exist to shape minds not through their lessons that are on the surface so much as the subtle Masonic ideology and internationalist propaganda the students are constantly exposed to. Overseas language-teaching programs exist not so much to teach linguistic proficiency as much to forcibly expose impressionable students to controlled benign foreigners and to promote and force the acceptance of race-mixing using the teachers themselves, since sexual-marital relationships mainly stem from the workplace.

The remaining two thirds of a child's formative mentality which thus remain are the schoolyard and the media.

These are comparatively very simple; in the schoolyard or at play, a child raised without the Christian ethical guidance traditionally inculcated by spending time with mother is only going to learn to reinforce self-centered dog-like behaviors by interacting with other amoral children brought up without proper guidance. Without any ethical guidance at all (Christian or otherwise), squabbling, vanity, and lust for self-indulgence are what children's interactions devolve into.

So that takes care of two thirds of the shaping of a child's mind.

The remaining third is shaped by the media.

Without a mother around to limit the child's exposure to the media, a child will generally spend as much time as possible absorbing input from TV, pop music, and video games. One look at the media today tells us that the media is essentially preaching an entirely selfish indulgence-fixated "free to do anything you want, free to be as perverse as you choose" worldview that is 100% in accord with Satanism. That is no exaggeration; one look at Freemason Anton LaVey's "Nine Satanic Statements" in his 1969 book The Satanic Bible illustrates that Satanism's version of the Ten Commandments boils down to a totally sociopathic formula: continual indulgence in sense-pleasures, hatred of religion, loveless sex, and secular humanism in the form of universal freedom of action and approval of any and all freakish extreme behavior. These, by funny coincidence, are those very same "peculiar morals" which Freemasonry inculcates in the minds of those unfortunate enough to become involved with their organization. Freemasonry gradually takes away a person's traditional morals by increments by appealing to the initiates' egotism; raining awards and titles and regalia upon them the more they conform to Masonic [Satanic] ideology. Only those who conform absolutely to Satanic principles make it to the top echelons. The rest are marginalized and remain in the lower degrees if they choose to hold onto their integrity and traditional morals. These benign members help keep an upstanding appearance on the organization and more importantly, continue paying their monthly dues as blissfully ignorant dupes. The egoistic feeling of elitism is usually enough to get someone to participate with Freemasonry.

"These have one mind," says Revelation 17:13, "and give their power and strength unto the Beast". This is because Freemasonry slowly forces the initiate's mind to conform to a Satanic ideal.

(Has the Masonic media even trained you to derisively laugh at the use of the word "Satanic"…? Who was the author of that feeling and what was their motivation?)

But Freemasonry pretends to be a benign charity in order to function openly in society.

"The robbers of thy people shall exalt themselves to establish the vision," says Daniel 11:36, "but they shall fall."

Militant minority-ism of one sort or another:

Feminism is strongly pushed on the public by Freemasonry. It is a key propaganda concept these days. Freemasonry brought about the creation of several organizations to manage and manipulate the messages the public is exposed to, such as Feminism to make sure everyone gets huge doses of society-changing propaganda every day to make sure Freemasonry gets to realize its subversive, evil vision for the world. In the UK, the organization is called the Tavistock Institute of Human Relations and they basically manage the entirety of BBC programming and everything else that's on the radio and TV. The techniques they developed were then shared with their Trilateral Commission parallel organizations for "societal change"; the global annihilation of religion, morality, and the sovereignty of nation-states. The Americans are afflicted with the American Psychological Association and the Stanford Research Institute, while Japanese children's morals are eroded by the Japan Psychoanalytic Society (Nippon Seishin-Bunseki Kyokai).

There are similar organizations in many other countries, especially NATO countries.

According to the Tavistock Institute, Feminism is supposedly desirable because it washes away religion, morality, has the potential to chisel apart the family unit, and even lower the human population (see the Tavistock Institute's sick book Changing Society by Changing the Family which you might find for sale on ebay.uk being sold by disgusted ex-members of their organization, but oddly, nowhere else. Hmm…). Feminism is also useful to the Masonic subverters because it is in line with the old philosophy of divide and conquer; the more factions there are, the less likely everyone is to listen to one another and agree to cooperate against the impending overthrow of their way of life. Freemasonry and the Eastern Star originated and still promote feminism because of the abominable reason that the corruption of women is a key way to shatter Catholic families. Women are just one faction they attempt to froth up into a perpetual angry state of resentment against society. (Compare to gay rights, black rights, etc. etc.) Feminism gets its claws into a woman's mind by appealing to her ego, making her more and more selfish by the trick of Calculated Button-Pushing; telling her all the alleged wrongs that have been supposedly committed against her. Many movies contain chauvinistic characters specifically written to demonstrate to women that they are being discriminated against.

Since it is highly unlikely that women will see enough actual first-hand discrimination to provoke them to the desired intense degree of resentment and rebellion (especially among traditionally very selfless Catholic women), the movies are more than happy to provide you with innumerable FICTIONAL examples. In the end, it is hoped by the subverters, that every woman will choose selfishness over the integrity of her family unit, and her home will be shattered in dissent when she is suitably and subtly provoked to discontent by fictional media messages. Her children, lacking proper guidance and having only selfishness and arguing to mold their character, will turn out poorly, will have no respect for ethics, and will amount to little because they can't restrain their egotism long enough to hold down a job; unconsciously emulating their mothers' self-centeredness, and initiating a cycle of generational familial dysfunctionality. All this destabilizes society tremendously; the children of broken homes sometimes even become criminals whose chaotic lives burden society, while perhaps some daughters and sons become so repellently self-centered they never get the chance to breed.

Other subverted women become enamored with vanity and making conquests to feel desirable and "special". This is the egoistic sexual fantasy lifestyle put forth in TV shows such as "Sex in the City"; the deranged Masonic love-'em-and-leave- 'em philosophy of which was actually developed by Freemason Sigmund Freud and the Tavistock Institute – the same Tavistock Institute which oversaw the creation and careful micromanagement of many rock bands exhibiting the same warped message beginning in the 1960's – as a means to corrupt and rip society apart to the point that Christianity, all religions and ethics, and later society as a whole will easily be pulled down in favor of an amoral one-world government. To paraphrase one of their own publications, "People solely focused on prolific personal sexual conquests, like urban gays for example, have no interest in taking to the streets to fight to maintain the integrity of the society in which they live. They will merely capitulate with change in order to resume their egoistic sexual activities as soon as possible. Yet their very activities promote the erosion of tradition and revolutionary change." …But who will rule if they get their way? Who wants to live in a world where no one has respect for anybody else and no one has any morality? This is dismantling Christianity in order to enshrine hate, selfishness, and resentment as the primary ethos.

That is completely and totally the wrong thing to do. Surely, even if one thinks Christianity a little stuffy, it is infinitely preferable to a Satanic kingdom where no one has any love or motivation to kindness, where children are exposed to sexual imagery at a tender age, and where everyone's prime motive is the mere titillation of the ego and indulgence in sense-pleasures.

Freemasonry,

if you want me to live in a hideous world like that, you are going to have to abduct and behead me, because I am going to doggedly oppose you every step of the way until the day I die.

Scripture states "In the latter days, there will no longer be any such thing as a virtuous woman."

Daniel 11 says that one of the signs that the End Times are upon us is that woman shall be corrupted.

In the old days, people had ethics, values, morals, and virtue.

Being raised on these things quickly taught the youngsters of ages past that selfless service to others is nothing less than THE KEY TO HAPPINESS. This has sadly been all but forgotten by modern people because of subversion deliberately tailored to cultivate egotism.

How do I figure? Let me show you…

Ok, so what exactly is happiness?

Arthur Schopenhauer, one of the most insightful, brilliant philosophers ever to walk the earth, said in his work, The World as Will and Idea, “Happiness is actually a negative quality – that is, the ABSENCE of something, -and that something is SELF.”

Think about this; what is it that makes your favorite pastime or hobby your favorite?

It is proportional to your ability to lose yourself in it.

it is the ability of this pastime to liberate you, as no other pastime does, from the unpleasant state of having to deal with yourself; your annoying, negative, hypercritical thoughts, your burdens, your aches and pains… and take you to a place far away where you are thinking of anything BUT self-oriented things! Consider how immersion in getting things you want – i.e. materialism – creates a vicious circle of desires; you want something real bad, and then finally you get it, only to realize it wasn’t as all satisfying as you thought it would be… Then it’s on to wanting something else! And so on and so on in an endless loop until we finally realize (maybe ten lifetimes down the road) that selfish desire leads to disillusionment. This is because no single object can liberate us from ourselves indefinitely. If we like building model kits, soon its built, and we want another one. But it isn’t really the model kit that makes us happy, it’s literally the losing of our SELF in the building of it.

Now, what if you could hold onto this suspension of self and remain happy without having to keep buying model kits? Playing video games is the same way; we lose our SELF while we are playing the games… Only when we emerge from the game do we start to experience the unpleasantness of the SELF again. What if you could hold on to that pleasant feeling of being liberated from the pain and unpleasantness of the self throughout the day, no matter what you were doing? To be happy all the time, you have to train your mind to focus on something APART or OTHER from the self as you go through the day. But what?

Now, with this in mind, let's look at the average Christian family of yesteryear as evidenced in the pages of innumerable nonfiction books written in centuries past; farm life in the days of yore: Everyone was brought up with the idea of service to others. When a man and a woman got married, they were brought up to go into marriage thinking about making each other happy, and they continued with this attitude every single day, not thinking of themselves, but the betterment of their spouses' life. As long as both husband and wife exercised this ethic, it led directly to CONTENTMENT (something totally unheard-of these days). When the couple had children, the children too learned the ethics of selfless contentment through service to others from their parents and continued the cycle, generation to generation; happiness through cultivating the desire to invest the time and effort to make OTHERS happy. They did this without expectation of reciprocation, and discounted it if someone showed them negativity and just let it go, but more often than not, along the way, their kind actions ensured that they were well-liked. As a result, they got so much support and love from everyone around them that going through life with one another was a joy. Practicing this ethic made it easy to get up and face the world every day, because the world consisted of friends.

But today, the media goes out of its way to try and convince us that the world is a violent, scary place that hates us so that we will lose our desire to devote ourselves to others' happiness. This is by Masonic design.

"Because iniquity shall abound, the love of many shall wax cold."

Matthew 24:12

But if you're relentlessly kind and supportive to people, especially these days, people are so relieved they will actually more often than not simply adore you for it.

Being selfless makes you content. Thinking always about making others happy is, counterintuitively, the only thing that will make you happy.

Being selfish and fixated on making yourself happy only makes you miserable.

THIS IS THE SECRET TO HAPPINESS - THE SECRET OF LIFE. It is nothing less than a Spiritual Law spoken into effect by God; THAT'S HOW IT IS! That's what God put us here to learn!

How did we ever forget to live in harmony with His laws…?

What happened??

The answer is: Masonic subversion, by slow, gradual increments.

Their weapon feminism shatters family spiritual harmony. The reason why Freemasonry pushes feminism in the media is because a family can be fatally devastated by a feminist mother, if the family members don't take the time needed to evaluate their reactions through extremely careful reflection, but instead lash out with reactionary counter-selfishness and anger, the family gets chiseled apart... With every family that falls, the world gets a little more chaotic…

Where I live in Japan, the new songs on the radio are preaching freedom and enjoyment to indulge in anything you want to do, even at the cost of defying the law, “Because it’s YOU who wants to do it!”. Songs and magazines aimed at girls openly flatly condemn the morals of virginity and chastity. On countless anime, sweet, selfless girls who are considerate of others are being more and more portrayed as “old fashioned” and even consistently made fun of as foolish, while malignant witchcraft-oriented “blunt”-talking violent heroines are becoming the new protagonists. In the schools, where my wife works, the children are even taught to stand up and sing pro-SDG Masonic propaganda songs during homeroom class.

Do the Freemasons want the world to devolve into total flaming amoral chaos so that they can declare an extreme emergency and declare the formation of an authoritative one-world government to solve the very problems THEY purposely created?

Look at what is ALL OVER the media. Freemasons are spending millions, if not billions, each year on CORRUPTING AND SUBVERTING WOMEN.

In addition to breeding religious morality out of the population, Feminism is also another way to incite just another “minority” into unfounded groundless rebellion against society. In the west, in many early 1920’s movies, women were portrayed as selfless considerate people full of supportive love and morality. Towards the late ’20’s early 30’s, women began to be heavily sexualized into ‘lust objects’ on screen, and scandalous “corrupted woman” movies boomed, ostensibly as cautionary tales, whilst really demonstrating how the audience could emulate the heroines themselves. Shortly thereafter in the late 30's early 40's, women were being shown engaging in all sorts of immoral acts, such as committing murders and fighting. In the mid to late 1940's, a strange thing happened; whereas dialogue in movies previous to this point had shown men treating women with verbal respect and polite chivalry, suddenly all on-screen male characters began exhibiting a patronizing, condescending, or mocking tone towards all the female characters. This was so that the media could convince women of the public that this state of affairs was a trapping of reality, as if it was not fiction. These movies were made specifically so that articles in periodicals could hold these films up for scrutiny in their reviews and affix to them words like "sexism", "misogynistic", and "chauvinistic" in order to trick women of the public into angrily becoming agents for the subversion of their own society. This technique might be called Calculated Button-Pushing; the deliberate provocation of an angry reaction by making some people feel discriminated against. Contrary to what you may have read in the modern media's subversive literature, Women were actually much more free in the past than the media would have you believe. Back in the 1700's there were female doctors, etc. In Arthur Schopenhauer's The World as Will and Idea, which came out 300 years ago, he makes casual passing mention of how commonplace it was in Germany at the time to have a female medical doctor as your practicing general practitioner. This is totally at odds with the dogma that the media wants you to believe about the past; that the face of woman has been continually stomped on by oppressive male discrimination since the dawn of time. That image is nothing but IDEOLOGY;

manipulative speech intended to incite women to anger. Freemasonry wants to put that anger to use for its own purposes. If woman has a flaw it is that she is somewhat gullible and falls for the same chain-yanking trick nearly every time. It is not that women need to stand up and shake off the yoke of males; instead she needs to develop the awareness of seeing that Freemasonry has been manipulating her and laughing at her behind her back as they use her as their willing dupe. They even tricked her out of properly caring for her own God-given children...

Masonic postcard, found on ebay

Masonic postcard:

What does this mean? The dog represents us, the everyman of the public. The can represents the subversion agenda of the Freemasons which the Masons think we are powerless to detect. The dog is brainlessly influenced by the clatter produced by the can; terrorized by that which is easily discarded and can quickly be overcome if one is simply aware of the trick.

In the old days, for the most part, everyone lived according to one morality; a SELFLESS morality in which every member of the family fulfilled their respective role because that's the one God gave them and they wanted to make the others in their family happy.

...But the subversive Freemasons know that in order to get people to angrily agitate for “equality” and to “stand up and fight for their rights”, then it is first necessary to convince them that they are being discriminated against. And this is the function of the media, their mind-control device.

Here is the first and last building block of the destabilization of society; using the target society itself to divide and conquer itself in a contrived clash of class, sex, creed, religion, and race conflict. If society is brought into a state of total chaotic disunity, there can be no significant objection when the time comes to deploy the tanks on every street corner. With any luck, you can use the conflict itself (provided enough people fall for it) to bring about the crisis conditions that are necessary to declare martial law, in perpetuity, unchallenged. If you can do this all over the world at the same time (as the Freemasons are attempting to do) then it is but a short step from tanks rolling through all your capital cities to the creation of a ONE WORLD GOVERNMENT.

This very same “prove to them they are being discriminated against” strategy was being perpetrated against the blacks as well since the early days of Hollywood; in the earliest films, blacks are shown as sober, dignified, well-mannered butlers or housemaids. Shortly afterwards, they are intentionally portrayed by the Masonic-owned and operated film studios as fools and jabbering stereotypes. The 1980’s got the trope of “the black guy always gets killed first” in war, horror, and slasher flicks and such. All this was intended from the beginning to piss off blacks and get them angry enough to riot. -And it certainly worked. Again, In order to get people to angrily agitate for “equality” and “rights”, it is first necessary to convince them that they are being discriminated against. What did the Rodney King trial demonstrate to blacks? The OJ Simpson Trial?

The result was rioting.

The 1990’s gave us trope of the angry shouting black man; a role model intended to create a generation ready for conflict. This spilled over into degenerate black gangster culture, and tailor made role models for massive scale conflict and race violence have been carefully crafted BY THE MEDIA to use against traditional American society and destroy it from within.

And now we have “Black Lives Matter” –but who is it that is saying that black lives don’t matter?

THE MEDIA, that’s who!

–On the Movies & TV shows THEY created!

It certainly isn’t your neighbors saying it! The media has terrorized real people into avoiding the race issue like the plague. It sounds obvious, but evidently most people have been fooled.

NEVER mistake what happens on the screen for a sampling of the way things happen in reality. There is ALWAYS an agenda.

Everyone should consider it their duty and responsibility to scrutinize every bit of media they are exposed to in order to identify the propaganda messages therein.

I was watching the 1981 BBC version of “Day of the Triffids” with my wife one evening… In that film, 95% of society goes blind. Just after this incident occurs in the plotline, there is a scene where men who can see are attempting to rape a blind woman.

My wife said, “Oh my gosh! So men are just waiting for an opportunity to attack and rape women at a moment where there won’t be any consequences?!” I was astonished at her; “Of course not!” I exclaimed, “But that’s exactly what the Masonic-operated BBC would love for women to think! That’s merely ideology!”

The media wants women to think they are being quietly discriminated against by all males everywhere when in fact 95% of men wouldn’t dream of bothering with such a practice. Where is the advantage to us to do such a thing? Why would men want women to hate them? They generally want very much for women to like them, and usually go to great lengths to try and put forth this impression.

The anime Puella Magi Madoka Magica contains a scene where one of the protagonists, a girl (who is a witch), overhears two men talking about women on a train. She hears them comparing their girlfriends to dogs, and gloating over how they callously abuse and take advantage of them, forcing them to “cook and slave” for them when they think of them like dirt. The girl protagonist is then shown to react by boldly chewing out the two men (who are portrayed as shocked and surprised that a girl stood up to them) and then …she gorily kills them.

When my wife saw this scene I could tell she was angered; she wasn’t angered that a girl protagonist, a rolemodel for children, was portrayed as committing MURDER, no, she was angered that the male characters had been gloating that their girlfriends perform acts of service for them. Again, she was deceived into erroneously believing that men are really like this BY A WORK OF FICTION THAT HAS NOTHING AT ALL TO DO WITH REALITY. This is why Freemasons have been cranking this deceptive stuff out full tilt since the 1940's…

Evidently it works.

My mother recently told me she saw men on the news picketing (apparently at nowhere in particular) with slogan-boards saying, "Your body - my choice!" She told me the media said that men were ganging together to oppose women's rights. I asked her, "what material benefit would men have in doing such a thing?" Indeed, what man in this day and age of lazy couch potatoes would get off his duff and take to the streets to make such an utterly pointless assertion? Aren't people these days always tired and crushed beneath endless responsibilities? Yet these men supposedly got up the gumption to go and do this nonsensical thing? I can hardly find one friend who has enough energy left after a week of work to hang out with me for even an hour a week. Yet these thirty or so men banded together to do this? Who has the time to devote to such an empty unprofitable activity as picketing for THAT of all things?? The truth is that the media regularly pays extras to hold signs and "picket" in order to make PROPAGANDA IDEOLOGY look like a grass roots movement. Haven't you ever seen those want ads in the paper that say, POLITICAL ACTIVISTS WANTED? These people are employees who work in the ideology field. The idea is to pass off the activities of political agendaists as a normal, commonplace thing that arises naturally in a population because people really feel that way. But many times, the reverse is what is really true; people are simply being paid to cooperate in propaganda stunts designed to promote the most unnatural of points of view because it serves the purposes of INTERNATIONAL FREEMASONRY. These paid, organized stunts are then photographed as illustrations for whatever psychological manipulation scheme the news has decided upon to ram down the public's throat this week.

Musical Manipulation

One thing you should never do is take the lyrics of a song and use it to reframe your life; that is exactly what they have expected you to do so that they can sabotage and subvert you!

An excellent example of a musical use of Calculated Button-Pushing is the song "Under My Thumb" by a seminal old Freemason band called "The Rolling Stones" (the title of the band itself being a reference to the dog-like Masonic ideal, the "love 'em and leave 'em" lifestyle.), this song is a tailor-made inflammatory slur against women deliberately calculated to piss women off and trick them into adopting feminism so that they become the unwitting, unthinking dupes of Masonic agendaism. The song is uncannily similar to the dialogue between the two FICTIONAL men in the above example from Puella Magi Madoka Magica; again it literally compares a woman to a dog and gloats over how servile she is. Apparently, this intentionally inflammatory idea is a standard one and has been recycled time and again over the decades in the manipulative Masonic media.

Another example is the 1999 The Mummy film; in it, a character makes a remark about a rival Egyptological expedition. "They are led by a woman; what does a woman know?" If the media is as sensitively humanist and egalitarian as they seem to want us to be, why would they characterize anyone in such an insulting manner? Wouldn't they be concerned about offending female members of the audience? In fact, their own continually harped-upon ideology proves that the intention was to offend the entire time! They were intentionally trying to piss women off and give them the erroneous impression that men regularly think in such a manner when in fact nothing is further from the truth. The media is just incessantly calculatingly “pushing women’s buttons” with the deliberate aim of making them angrily resent men merely FOR THE IDOLOGICAL PURPOSE OF FURTHERING THE AIMS OF FREEMASONRY.

Ultimately Freemasonry doesn’t give a damn about women or anybody else of course, they are just antagonizing people deliberately and using their collective anger to get their overarching goals accomplished. If women have a true central enemy it is Freemasonry, which continually pulls the wool over her eyes and mocks her, winding her up and letting her go in order to watch her slavishly carry out what they have tricked her into doing.

“Challenging your Assumptions”:

One of the biggest Masonic media propaganda tropes these days, if not THE biggest, is information specifically tailored to challenge our assumptions about anything and everything. It doesn’t matter to the media which assumptions of ours are being challenged, or even by what; it is enough that people are being regularly and repeatedly trained that their natural perceptions about how things should be and how they usually are should be demonstrated to them as unreliable as frequently as possible, again using fiction. The central reason for this is simply to staunch the inevitable public backlash against Feminism and the phenomenon that women adhering to this philosophy will be reviled by virtually everyone who does not subscribe to it, because there is nothing more repugnant to any human being than the perception of egotism on the part of another. (That in itself proves that human souls did not originate on earth! WE are from a higher dimension, destined for a higher purpose!) Egotism disgusts and repulses people and drives them away. Feminism appeals to the subverted woman by appealing to her ego. It has the direct effect of amplifying any existing egotism so that it manifests to a much greater degree than it might have ordinarily, because the female has been deceived into believing that her happiness is proportionate NOT to how she can be of Christian service to others, or how much she can support her family, but is instead somehow proportionate to the amount that she asserts herself and defies others, especially males. (But this path will ultimately destroy her and her family and was carefully tailored to do so.) Evidently, it was felt among Freemasons that the main objection to the Feminism weapon they were about to deploy on the public was that people would stand up and say to women, “That’s not how a lady is supposed to act; good women find contentment in being gracefully selfless, and supportive; not selfish, like you are. You’re a bad person and very poor wife material.” People saying this to a prospective feminist my well deal her burgeoning feminism a killing blow. She might well say to herself, “gosh, they’re right; I’m being really selfish and that’s not right. I should rethink this; go apologize and change my ways.” The Masonic countermeasure decided upon was to statistically lower the probability that this kind of thing would happen by convincing the public that they should not make ANY assumptions about how anyone is to be, let alone women. Even though everyone has always known men are protective and women are nurturing for a million years, Freemasonry now wishes to have us unlearn this so that they can subvert us with their weaponized egalitarianism, the immediate crowbar with which they hope to lever apart Christian families along with everyone else's. No more selflessness means no more comprehension of Christian inner peace. Therefore no more Christianity. It is as disgusting and simple as that.

The fact is, the LORD blessed us with discernment so that we can tell right from wrong, ego from egolessness, selflessness from selfishness, worth from worthlessness, and good from evil. Indeed, to master our discernment of good from evil is exactly the reason WHY WE ARE HERE. We are here to unlearn the trap of egotism; what it does to us and how it lets Satan take total control of our hearts. Those who love not the TRUTH and instead love the lies of Freemasonry are not Christians. If you love feminism, you cannot be a Christian; whether you realized it or not you are a Satanist, because, as Anton LaVey taught in the Satanic Bible, Satanism IS selfishness. If you embrace feminism so that you can assert your personal desires and/or indulge in promiscuous sex without honoring your husband, you are a Satanist, because, as Freemason Anton LaVey also taught in the Satanic Bible, Satanism is indulgence. Anton LaVey also wrote a book called The Satanic Witch, a how-to book teaching women how to be selfish and evil. Right off the bat, the book lets us know straight out; "THE SATANIC WITCH IS A FEMINIST." He then backs up this assertion with everything the Satanic Bible teaches about glorifying the ego and indulgence at the expense of everything else in life. This is the inversion of everything that Christ taught. The precepts of Christ teach that you will have peace and contentment throughout your life if you simply embrace selflessness.

Conversely, the scriptures tell you plainly the unhappy fate of those who assert their egotism:

YOU HAVE NO PEACE.

When will people realize that Jesus' teachings were THE ONLY REAL formula for happiness and contentment on this earth?
